

Group Training FAQs

Who is group training intended for?

Our group training solutions are crafted for government entities at all levels—Federal, State, and Local—seeking to enhance the collective performance management competencies of their teams. It is suitable for executives, managers, team leaders, and any professionals dedicated to improving government services.

What options are available for group training?

We understand the diverse preferences of our clients. Our group training programs are flexible, offering both virtual-live and in-person sessions based on your team's needs. The format can be customized according to the number of participants and specific requirements.

How can organizations request group training for their teams?

Organizations interested in our group training programs can initiate the process by contacting us. Whether your team prefers virtual-live sessions or in-person training, we will work closely with you to understand your requirements and tailor a program that aligns with your objectives.

Is there a minimum number of participants required for group training?

Group training is adaptable to your organization's size. Whether you have a small team or a large department, we can accommodate your needs. Our pricing and training structure are designed to cater to groups of various sizes.

Can the group training cover specific topics or be customized for our organization's needs?

Absolutely! We recognize that each government entity has unique challenges and priorities. Our group training programs can be customized to address specific topics or challenges relevant to your organization. We work closely with clients to ensure the content is tailored to meet their objectives.

What are the available formats for group training?

Our group training can be conducted in a virtual-live format, allowing participants to join remotely, or in-person for a more traditional classroom experience. The choice of format depends on your team's preferences and logistical considerations.

How is the pricing determined for group training?

The cost of group training is based on several factors, including the number of participants, the chosen format (virtual-live or in-person), and any specific customization requirements. To receive a customized quote, please reach out to us, and we will work with you to provide a detailed proposal.

Can recordings of group training sessions be provided?

Yes, upon request, recordings of group training sessions can be provided. This allows participants to revisit the material and ensures that valuable insights and learning can be shared within the organization.

How can organizations inquire about and initiate group training?

For more information or to initiate a discussion about group training for your organization, please contact the Performance Institute at info@performanceinstitute.org or call 877-992-9521. Our team is ready to assist you in creating a tailored training solution that meets your team's unique needs.